

Technology Consultant (Contract)

Location: Limerick, Ireland or Remote

Hilt - www.wearehilt.com is a start-up people consulting business with big ambitions. We have two main channels of business. We work with job seekers and career changers at all levels of experience and seniority to gain the jobsearch and interviewing skills required to land their next role. This includes working closely with universities and education providers to help students gain the right skills to navigate the job market and land the perfect role to start or progress their career. We also work with companies and organisations to ensure that their interviewing and selection processes are designed to enable them to hire great people. We have an enviable client base and a reputation for delivering innovative quality services across Ireland and Europe.

While our current business is very people focused, we are also highly technology enabled and are constantly innovating on solutions for our clients.

We are about to embark on a major expansion plan and we are looking for a highly motivated person to join our team. This is a great opportunity for the right candidate to join a company at the early stages of technology expansion. You will help us build out a client data platform to expand our current European client base to a globally accessible people data platform. A true opportunity to come in at the start of a great adventure, take some risk and get some great rewards along the way. Here's what we need:

Role:

- Work with us and our clients to define our tech data platform needs.
- Work with Technology vendors to define and build our tech solution
- Define work packages and manage work from multiple 3rd parties
- Have a lot of fun working with us to transform the job search, career management and employer assessment and selection businesses

You:

- Have a background in HR technology. You will likely have worked on or implemented a large HR system such as Workday or Successfactors (or similar)
- Be passionate about technology and data. Be very knowledgeable about HR systems, records, GDPR and other requirements.
- Have a strong technical background in HR systems and People based technology solutions
- Have some experience of designing or building UI/UX solutions
- Know Cloud vendors, in particular AWS. Some Azure or GCP also good.
- Know how to code (GO, Python, .NET, Java)
- Be passionate about people, technology and change

Requirements:

Experience:

- Ideally 4+ years coding experience, preferably in a UI/UX talent role or a technology product organisation.
- Can quickly form strong working relationships with colleagues within and outside your location.

www.wearehilt.com
info@wearehilt.com

Education:

- A degree in a technical subject

Flexibility:

We offer a highly flexible employment model. Work from home, of course. Work part time, no problem. Work late some days start late other days, no issue. Be passionate, enjoy working in a small team and love technology, we will make a flexible package work for you.

20 Hours a week minimum, with ability to flex to 30 – 40 hours depending on the need.

How to apply:

Apply with your CV and a Cover Letter detailing how your experience would be of benefit to this role to info@wearehilt.com